A rare opportunity and a sound investment

This timeless Colonial offers exceptional space, flexibility, and long-term upside in Beardsley Park, just moments from Beardsley Park Zoo, abutting Nob Hill Park, and close to everything.

With four generously sized bedrooms and two full baths, the home has the feel of a six-bedroom layout, thanks to an oversized den/office/guest room on the main level and a finished walk-up attic that adds additional space. The main level is anchored by a huge formal living room with fireplace and a spacious formal dining room, while the enclosed three-season sunroom extends the footprint even further, creating an easy transition between the interior and the outdoors.

Upstairs, the bedrooms are well-proportioned with hardwood flooring, and the layout flows in a way that makes everyday living comfortable and practical.

The walk-out basement, with its own separate entrance, offers substantial storage and adds to the overall versatility of the home—one of several areas where the size, layout, and solid bones create real potential.

Outside, a detached four-car garage—currently configured as three bays with additional storage—along with a long driveway that comfortably accommodates five or more vehicles, provides a level of parking and utility that's hard to come by.

A brand new Navien gas-fired tankless combi system adds efficiency and reliability for heat and hot water.

Overall, this is a home defined by its space, layout, and underlying structure, offering a strong foundation for future improvements and the opportunity to create something truly your own over time. The NX2 zoning adds another layer of flexibility and opens the door to greater possibilities for what this property can become.

Welcome home.
