Oven

Works well, but springs on door are loose, so need to use lock (which has the tip missing) to keep door securely shut when baking.

Security System

Has ADT control box by front door and receivers by windows and doors, but needs new wiring from ADT in control box.

Central Air Conditioning

Unit works and has been regularly serviced, but it is old (at least 18 yrs)

Roof

I believe metal roof was installed on top of a not leaking shingle roof, so “double insulated”. The same is true for the house siding. New siding installed all around, along with new windows and front door, in 2020, and I understand the siding was installed on the siding it had, so the walls are rated at a very high insulated rating

- There are restrictive covenants on the title/deed
- Conservation easement – I believe the back most portion is subject to a “conservancy restriction,” but I am not 100% sure if this is what the question refers to, so I wanted to ask
  - The conservancy area is delineated with a fence that runs along the border, which was done after an official survey marked the boundaries
- Miscellaneous:
  - There are two rips in the kitchen flooring. One in front of the refrigerator and the other in the corner next to the sliding glass door
  - A piece of the living room flooring is slightly protruding up due to the “tongue-groove” connection failing in one spot.
  - I do not know the AMP service size, but electric is not defective and was checked and run into the addition in 2022 by a professional electrical company
